“ You always would tell me you love and missed me, then you would pause and say "no I really do" almost as if you second guessed if I loved you. You would call me your son, If you seen me out you would scream from a mile away to say hi and give me a hug. You always had a smile on your face, and always knew how to make someone laugh. I'll never forget the good memories we've had together. I was told you thought we didn't love you but we did, we always loved you. Harry
